

Captain Angrychops' treasure!

Ahoy there, Swashbucklers! My name's Gem, and I'm going to tell you a story all about a band of very naughty pirates!

One sunny day on the pirates' island, the naughtiest pirate of all, Captain Sinker, was very excited! She shouted to her two silly shipmates, Cook and Line, to get out on deck.

"Listen you two," bellowed Captain Sinker, "Captain Angrychops has dropped anchor on the other side of the island. He's got loads of treasure, so I'm going to take it! And you're going to help me."

Cook and Line started to shiver and shake.

"B-b-b-but Captain Angrychops is really big!" gasped Cook.

"And he's really horrible!" said Line.

"And really, really angry!" they both cried together.

"Who are you more frightened of..." shouted Captain Sinker, "Captain Angrychops or ME?"

Taking other people's treasure is very naughty. If you think Captain Sinker is a naughty pirate, shout ahaa!

Back on the pirate ship, Sinker asked Cook and Line to come up with a plan to help her take Captain Angrychops' treasure.

The only problem was that Cook and Line were a pair of very silly pirates and they were not good at coming up with plans! "I hope you two are thinking of a completely brilliant plan to get me that treasure!" said Sinker.

"We've got the perfect plan!" replied Line.

"We're going to sneak up to Captain Angrychops' ship," whispered Cook, and he pretended to sneak across the room.

"Then we're going to knock on the door..." said Line, as he pretended to knock. "And when Angrychops opens the door we'll say...can we have some of your treasure? Pretty please!"

"Your plan is terrible!" roared Captain Sinker, and she told them to come up with the most daring and clever plan ever. Cook and Line thought and thought until their heads hurt!

Finally, Line thought up a new plan. He asked Sinker and Cook to pretend they were crewmen on Angrychops' ship. "Pretend you're busy looking at your treasure,” said Line as he crept up behind them. “We’ll sneak on board and blindfold everyone!” He put two blindfolds on Sinker and Cook. “Then, we’ll tie them up with rope!” said Line, and he got a big rope and tied Sinker and Line together.

What a terrible plan!

Line pulled his own hat down over his eyes so he could pretend to be a blindfolded pirate. “I get it!” cheered Cook. “Everyone will be tied up so they won’t be able to chase us, and we can steal all their treasure!”

The three pirates started to laugh. Ha, ha, ha! “Very good!” said Captain Sinker.

“Now, how do we get free from these ropes?”

Just then, they heard footsteps creeping down into the cabin. It was Captain Angrychops!

By the time Sinker had pulled off her blindfold and wriggled out of the rope, her treasure had gone!

Captain Angrychops and his crew had sneaked in while they were tied up and stolen her treasure instead. “You pair of silly sea dogs!” Captain Sinker shouted at Cook and Line.

Now Captain Sinker had lost her treasure, and it served the naughty pirates right for taking things that didn’t belong to them.

Time for a big cheer and our special Swashbuckle song! Will you join in too?

